German Shepherd Dog / Mixed

Up-to-date

Jeep is a female German Shepherd mix who was born sometime in the year 2000. She was abandoned in a home that had been foreclosed on. She had been left there by her owners, left alone to die a horrible death. Fortunately, she was found alive four weeks later, nearly starved to death. Obviously her will to live is what carried her through this ordeal. She entered in our lives on 3-23-05. Starved, emaciated, extremely weak, barely able to walk, she was brought to our shelter. She was given the best care possible, medically and emotionally, but Jeep always did have that inner strength to fight the odds. Despite how she was treated, she still loves people. She craves the attention and affection of adults and children. She is a pure tomboy! She is very playful, and would make a great playmate or running buddy. Jeep deserves more than she has received up to this point in her life. Are you willing to treat this special dog with the kindness she deserves?
