Butterscotch is a beautiful long-haired tabby kitten who was found with her sister, Brownie, in an abandoned house. She did not live with humans for her first 6 weeks so she was quite scared of us at first. Butterscotch has been staying with a foster and getting used to people. She is still pretty timid but is getting braver every day. She has learned that toys are super fun and does the funniest chattering sound when she chases the laser dot. Butterscotch needs a patient adopter who is willing to help this sweetheart become a confident cat! She would do best in a kid-free home because fast movements and loud noises scare her. She would love to stay with her sister and BFF, Brownie, but may also do well with another cat who can show her how great it is to live with humans. Come and meet this fuzzy cutie and fall in love!
